

Using APA 7: A Q

the primary author (e.g., Jackson et al. (2017) state ..)

APA Style Manual 7 th -8.36), whenever you're referring to a work with three or more authors, you should always use et al., even in the first citation. This the et al. would cause with the same lead author. The Purdue OWL provides the following example with what would otherwise be Jones et al. (2020):
